EASY TO BE HAPPY

THOUGH HOT—WILEY

Dr. Harvey Wiley.

Dr. Harvey Wiley, the Washington food expert, in recently discussing ways and means of enjoying hot weather, declared that Americans are the world's worst "ninnies" about cold drinks and do not use them intelligently. They should be used sparingly, never deluging the inners with every ice drink to be had, and always sipping, not quaffing them.

BALK EXHIBIT FRAUD AT JANSVILLE FAIR

JUDGES AND FAIR MANAGEMENT, THROW OUT TWO BIG EXHIBITS IN FANCY WORK DEPARTMENT.

WORK A CLEVER GAME

Gentleman Manager in Charge of Galvanized Trunk is Shown Up Following a Careful Investigation.

An exhibit fraud of astounding proportions was unearthed in the fancy work department of the Jansville fair on Friday as a result of which two collections of fancy needle work which had taken a large percentage of the first and second prizes, were thrown out of the competition.

The two exhibits, which the judges in the fancy work department of the local fair decided were entered by one and the same person, arrived in a galvanized trunk, carefully packed, and accompanied with the request that the exhibit be displayed. A quiet man, an elderly gentleman was in charge of the chest.

The local judges noted a curious similarity in the work of two exhibitors. The dots in the embroidery, the making of the leaves and other little touches were identical in the two collections. A further study revealed the fact that the same monogram were worked out with painstaking care on handkerchiefs and table linen of each collection. A glance at the entry book showed that Miss M. Kuehn of Jefferson making sixty-one entries, on which she received forty-one prizes, mostly first awards, and Miss Anna Reibel of Jefferson, No. 685, was making thirty-nine entries on which she received twenty prizes mostly seconds.

Now, why should handkerchiefs with the identical monogram M. K. which Miss Kuehn had ornamented her own belongings and why her table linen should have the same large and elaborate embroidery upon it, of which Miss Kuehn had several absolutely the same in her own collection? These were questions which puzzled the judges. P. is the initial of Miss Kuehn's employer and of course it was allowable to enter such articles in the contest of her own handiwork. But it was not allowable to enter them in another collection under another name.

The testimony of the hand writing of the two ladies was also very conclusive. A further study of Miss Reibel's hand writing and other little items on the checks, etc., being suspiciously alike.

The officials after considering the matter very carefully could come to no other conclusion except that Miss Kuehn had made two exhibits. Not satisfied with taking such a large proportion of first prizes she had entered other articles of her work under a second name to get a chance at the second prizes also. The officials at the main office went over the evidence very carefully and decided to throw out of competition both exhibits, unless they were able to prove the workmanship of the entries shown. They so notified the gentleman of the treasure box, when he appeared to make collection.

It was a dramatic moment in Floral hall when, after an hour's paid work on the part of four ladies, the entire exhibit of one hundred pieces was checked up and restored to the two boxes in which they had been shipped to the city. The fair manager intimated that he would make trouble on the question, but as the ladies had a prominent fair official as attorney and a policeman to back them up, he decided to take his goods and go.

He seemed grieved to think anyone should object as he said he had been over the circuit for years and he announced that on last year the staff would point to him as the man who knew of the double entry this year. There are numerous stories in circulation of him expert cooks to bake cake, of borrowing and buying flowers for exhibition purposes in her home town and of the wholesale way in which this business of working the fairs was conducted. The trunk of these rumors cannot be traced but the Jansville fair management has taken definite steps to prevent fraudulent exhibits and to assure the ladies of Rock county that they will hereafter be guaranteed a square deal and a chance to show honest competition at the Jansville fair. "No doubt they will appreciate the opportunity and prepare right now to make the biggest and best display of fancy work in 1917 that the management has ever known."

The journey of the galvanized trunk around a circuit of fairs in Wisconsin, has been an annual event according to the story which is given credence and which the findings of the judges at the Jansville fair tends to substantiate. Promptly on the first day of the fair at which it was to be shown, being sent by express.

Within would be a note by the owner, expressing the wish that the exhibit be unpacked and displayed. This being done on the last afternoon after the admission for charge has been withdrawn. A quiet, elderly man would appear and collecting the hundred or two dollars prize money would take up his box and depart. The owner of the fancy work with which the box was filled, seemed to be of a retiring and modest disposition. She kept discreetly in the background and only appeared as a name on the entry books of the official collection of the fairs.

Repetitions of this practice caused exhibitors to enquire as to the whereabouts of the galvanized trunk and the reason she possessed such a remarkable collection of hand made work. This is the third year that the property has appeared here and the exhibit has been staged at this fair. It will be its last "public performance" on this route, in fact such information was given by the fair "manager" on Saturday.

While there is nothing illegal in getting together a complete exhibit and making a circuit of the fairs, it defeats the educational purpose for which fairs are maintained, and stops the friendly spirit of competition which they are trying to foster. It is purely a money grabbing proposition and as such should be treated by fair officials.

BIG FIELDS ENTERED IN SATURDAY RACES

Dick Mayburn, Manitoba Horse, Wins 2:12 Pace—Princess Italia Makes Fine Showing in 2:22 Trot.

With big fields entered in Saturday's races, with the track in fine condition, and some of the best horses of the week competing, the track fans were provided with a first class entertainment on the closing day of the Jansville fair. Dick Mayburn, a brown filly, owned and driven by C. A. Niles of St. Paul, was the sensation in the 2:12 pace on the mile track, winning three heats out of four. Pointing Queen, owned by Chas. Dean of Fairview, Ill., who won the first heat, failed out on the second heat and was distanced. Dean had a horse entered in each of Saturday's races and for a time it looked as if he would clean up. His brown mare, Eva Bingen, won handily at three straight heats in the 2:23 trot and George Garden won second money in the 2:35 trot. In the latter race, Princess Italia, a brown filly, owned and driven by C. A. Niles of St. Paul, was the sensation, coming up from sixth place, where she finished in the first heat, and taking three straight. The driving of Mr. Niles, who is a veteran of the turf, excited much comment.

Notes of the Fair

Many distinguished visitors attended the fair on Friday. F. W. Gillman, secretary of the Evansville fair, was here in the interest of that organization. H. L. Austin was also here advertising the many features of the Evansville fair and procuring exhibits of stock and other things to add to the fair to be held at Madison was also here, besides innumerable stockmen and those interested in the horse exhibit. Frank Hyne, president of the Evansville fair, was also here, and down here, and from Madison were noticed Mr. Harrington, Mr. Wiswall, Mr. Riggs and several others.

The program of musical selections in the grandstand on Saturday afternoon was of unusual merit. Miss Gallagher gave the selections "If Hear You Calling Me" and "The Perfect Day." Both were given with wonderful effect the weather conditions being much more favorable than on the preceding night. Miss Wenger sang as her first number "I'll Build a Jubilee in My Old Kentucky Home," responding to an encore with "My Bird of Paradise." She was handed a bouquet of pink roses showing the appreciation of the audience. Later in the afternoon she gave the song "When I Leave the World Behind Me." Robert Daley gave some old time favorites of the public "The Long Long Trail" and "The Hula Hula Girl" later closing the musical program with his rousing interpretation of "Wake Up America."

Some interesting items in the exhibit were noted. One of the special prizes of the fancy work department went to an exhibit of Handkerchief work made by Mr. Miller of Jefferson. It is rare that a man excels in the line of needlework and when he does he deserves special credit. No prize had been offered for work of this class, so a special award was made to the collection.

First on embroidered baby pillow and carriage robe went to Mrs. L. J. Tyler, city; also she had first on embroidered tablecloth and napkins. Mrs. Fred Bissel of Jefferson received first on crocheted baby bonnet and three table mats. Mrs. Homer Jones of Delavan had first on embroidered apron. Mrs. A. Hahnagle, city, had first on knit sweater for the best sweater in crocheted. Mrs. G. W. Richardson, Dane, first on point lace handkerchief went to Mrs. P. A. Spoon; that on a dresser scarf in drawn work to Mrs. Mart Morse. Mrs. Chas. Burrows, city, had first on embroidered baby dress and embroidered tray. The first on set of six crocheted baskets went to Mrs. William Cox, Edgerton, who also had several other works. Mrs. Fred Bissel of Jefferson had very nice work and took several prizes. It is the first time she has brought work to the Jansville fair.

Owing to the fact that two exhibits were barred from competition, the work of the judge in the fancy work department was much more difficult. However, it was all completed on time but some of the exhibitors lost their ring fruits and vegetables by Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley of Madison will have to be omitted as Miss Kelley cannot be present at this meeting. In honor of having the prize ribbons on their articles during the fair. Some

POLICE GET RINGS CUT-OFF CITY GIRL LOST AT STATION

Capture Fair Troupe Dancing Queen and She Gives Up Jewelry.

Unless Clarence Powers, owner of the Kooch show at the Jansville fair last week, comes across with thirty dollars as security for the appearance of Marion Taylor, "The Colored Queen" of the Sheban Butterflies, his main attraction, visitors at the Big Rock County Fair at Evansville this week will miss the opportunity to see the famous (?) muscle contortionist. Marion rests today in a cell at the county jail because Clarence did not see fit thus far to furnish the security he had been held on larceny charges.

The Queen, and in fact the whole fair troupe, were arrested at the Northwestern depot Saturday night, after Doris Peck, a pretty Evansville Miss, reported that she had had two rings stolen from her as she washed her hands in the ladies' toilet. The Queen, it seems, happened to be the only one who entered the toilet during the period Miss Peck was washing, and as a result suspicion instantly rested on her.

She denied the theft, but was taken to the station, where the companions. Even there she denied that she had stolen the jewelry or had seen the rings, but when the chief was called over the telephone she finally decided to "come across" and removed them from the front of her waist.

The jig appeared to be up, but Marion did not think so, and immediately she confided the information that she had found the rings.

She told Judge Maxfield the same story this morning, but after the court had heard the story of the trouble in finally securing the jewelry he held her under thirty dollars bail and set her examination for Friday.

Marion's embassy between herself and Clarence was a soot-black negro lad who danced around almost as much in the court room and in the police station as he did when the common man was busy at the show. It took two looks to distinguish that Marion was a negress so heavy was the camouflage and mimicry decorations of her face.

Miss Peck's rings were: One elaborate sterling silver peacock, set with imitation rubies and amethysts, value $1.50; one plain gold-plated, set with a "red" stone ruby, value $1.50.

STATE FIRE LOSSES
INCREASE IN JULY

Total Loss For the Month is Estimated at $603,025 Says Fire Marshal's Report.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Aug. 14.—Total fire losses in Wisconsin of $603,025 were reported during the month of July by the fire marshal department of the office of the commissioner of insurance. The number of fires reported was 250. This is an increase of nine fires and an increase of $229,295 over the month of June. The larger total losses are due to an increase in lightning fires, and to one heavy single fire. The losses were covered by insurance to the amount of $512,430.

According to causes the principal losses reported were:
Number Loss
Lightning fires 30 $30,800

Your "Bull" Durham Is Pure Virginia-Carolina Leaf—the World's Best Tobacco for Cigarettes

If you could visit the "Bull" Durham factory in Durham, N. C., you would quickly convince yourself of the absolute purity of this famous tobacco.

You would see 107 "stripped" hogsheads of pure, ripe, golden leaf in one great group—107 varying types of Virginia-Carolina leaf required to make the distinctive "Bull" Durham blend.

You would see this pure, carefully selected, aged leaf start through the wonderful system of breakers, granulators and sieves, and emerge three-quarters of an hour later in tiny golden flakes of pure, sweet, fragrant cigarette tobacco—"Bull" Durham.

But it isn't necessary to go to the factory to prove for yourself the purity of "Bull" Durham. Pour some from a sack—separate the flakes—examine them—taste them—note their aroma. Every one is pure tobacco—and the best tobacco for cigarettes ever grown—Virginia-Carolina leaf.

GENUINE

"BULL" DURHAM
SMOKING TOBACCO

For a cigarette that's absolutely pure, mild and wholesome—one that will give the greatest possible smoking enjoyment—"Roll Your Own" with "Bull" Durham.

Don't think it's hard to do—it isn't. Rolling a cigarette with "Bull" Durham is one of the most simple operations in the world. Try it a few times and you'll quickly get the knack. Then you can have the satisfaction of smoking the cigarette that's preferred by smart, live, virile smokers the world over.

FREE An illustrated Booklet, showing correct way to "Roll Your Own" Cigarettes, and a package of cigarette papers, will be mailed, free, to any address in United States on request. Address "Bull" Durham, Durham, N.C.

AFFAIRS NATIONAL.

Militarism appears to have spread to this continent. Orders have been issued for twenty-five thousand more of our citizen soldiery to entrain for the military camps on the Mexican border. This will bring the total of state guards up to a total of a hundred and seventy-five thousand that are doing duty down along the Rio Grande, or so many miles behind this line that they are in no danger except from disease.

In fact none of the troops down there are in any real danger, and while it will knock the rough edges
off a lot of the recruits that followed the flag, they can not help but feel aggrieved over the fact that they are being used simply as political pawns in this coming presidential campaign. The present military maneuver is simply a political play and it can not be considered anything else.

On one questions the loyalty and patriotism of the young men who enlisted and went away from their homes and their business when the president called for troops, but it does become a tax on patriotism and loyalty to drill, march and drill, with no prospects of anything but "watchful waiting" as a result of their display.

The United States has demonstrated its unfitness for an active military campaign more forcibly than could have been expected, but the use of the armed force to substantiate the claim Wilson has kept this country out of war is so apparent to all that the subtlety would be exploded, and the men returned home and the regulars left to keep watch along the border.

Meanwhile start a campaign of preparedness. Begin at the very foundation and remedy the faults that have been found to exist in the present display of the inadequacy of the military supplies of the national guards. Fortunately Wisconsin had an efficient guard, had men in charge that knew what to expect and who were prepared for emergencies and met them,
but the sad display of many states
has been such that the public is disgusted with the penny wise and pound foolish policy of the democratic administration in handling national affairs.

Candidate Hughes is traveling the country over and his statements, disclosing the petty partisan politics played by the Wilson regime has been most surprising. It has been suggested before but the cold facts when laid before the public is not pleasing to digest and should convince the average voter that now is the time to make a radical change, not only in the presidential office, but also in congress.

Wisconsin offers the voters a truly republican, truly American candidate in the person of Malcolm G. Jeffris.
He is not a wolf in sheep's clothing,
he does not imitate that most timid of animals, but he dares to stand out and tell the voters to start thinking for themselves and urge them to nominate a man who will be republican at the polls and republican when he gets to Washington.

It is up to the voters entirely, these national political questions and they should make no mistake. Wisconsin has one democratic senator and it should not have two. It is a republican state at heart and while at present one bears the sign of republicanism, he votes with the democrats on all important measures, taxation and all taking money from his constituents' pockets, his term of office should be terminated and a true republican like Mr. Jeffris sent down to Washington in his place.

FARMER GEORGE.

George Harrington of Elkhorn, republican candidate for the nomination for secretary of state, has been a Janesville visitor for several days of the past week. "Farmer George" he is called for he is a farmer—not a book farmer, but a genuine one, whose farm over in Walworth is a model.
He took time from his labors last week to attend the Janesville fair and incidentally made two short addresses at the home coming. He did not mean to do so, but the opportunity was forced upon him and he talked.
Two years ago Harrington went up to Madison as the member from Walworth in the assembly. He was named chairman of the committee on taxation, was a member of the joint investigation committee to look over the state expenditures and see where they could be curtailed and the taxpayer saved a few hundreds of thousands of dollars. He did his work well. His knowledge of state affairs is wide. He is in touch with the administration of Governor Philipp and his plans of economy and beside that he is a working, tax-paying citizen himself, not a tax-eater.

"Farmer George's" name appears on the republican ballot at the September primaries. He seeks the office at the earnest solicitation of his friends who are most anxious to see a man with his qualifications in the important office of secretary of state,
one of the offices that is vital to the success of a conservative administration. Harrington is a man of man and he does not beat about the bush. He knows the taxation problem of the state from end to end, can see where savings can be installed and how the state's revenues can be conserved without detriment to the state as a whole. It is to be hoped that he can be nominated and elected for he is the type of man who would be an honor to the state in the office he seeks.

THE NEXT EVENT.

During the present summer Janesville has held a most successful
Fourth of July celebration, has staged a wonderful fair and home-coming,
enjoyed the delights of two circuses
and has a third in prospect, plenty of amusement for one summer is the thought implied.

The playgrounds have given the younger generation plenty of activity,
the golf links for many of the older baseball has filled a niche and the river, always a welcome playground, another. The extremely hot days and nights has driven many to lake resorts or the northern woods and the past eight weeks has really been one series of vacations for young and old alike.

Meanwhile the ladies of the city have established a successful women's rest room, that deserves especial comment and commendation. It is meeting a long-felt want and during the fall and winter months its value will be enhanced by the calls which will come that it is hoped will tax its capacity and impress the general public that a larger and more commodious
location is essential.

Slowly but surely the city officials are becoming impressed by the fact that more drinking fountains are needed and are installing them. The parks are not yet supplied with an adequate number, but perhaps another season will see this fault remedy-
ed. However, credit should be given for the effort being made by the present time by the placing of bubblers
on street corners in the business district.

The public swimming beach is still a dream of the future and the park
proposition another of the chimerical ideas that spring up each year only to die a natural death from lack of interest and nourishment of the financial sort. The swimming schools are enjoyed but a park with such equipment in connection would be the crowning monument to a season's work.

Labor Day is coming, then comes the school year, and the return from the vacation for citizens who have almost forgotten home and home ties
in the new interests they have found in their journeyings. The auto is still the modus vivendi and increasing in use. Trips of sixty to seventy or a hundred odd miles are started after dinner and the party return home by midnight. As for a forty mile trip, that is an evening jaunt.

The city has revolutionized the summer vacation period and unfortunately has taken the interests of citizens who might otherwise advance financially, in the establishment of parks and bathing beaches in their home community for they can enjoy privileges accorded other communities after an enjoyable ride of a few miles, so why bother with home affairs.

However, matters may adjust themselves—it is to be hoped they will—
and then the question of "What Next?" will be solved by the establishment of home pleasure and recreation grounds that can be enjoyed by those who are forced to remain at home months or "diplomatic and financial" reasons.

It might be noted that the summer evenings are becoming shorter and that the failure of the authorities to have the street lights turned on earlier does not give the impression the new "stagger system" was intended to give strangers an idea as to the
up-to-dateness and prosperity of the home coming week and the failure to do so caused considerable comment.

Janesville is coming back to its own in the horse racing game. There is no doubt but the next fall will see a bigger and larger field of fast harness horses facing the starter than this year and nothing could be asked by the audiences of this year's race card.

Remember that primary day is near at hand and do not fail to plan to register your choice for the nomination of United States senator, governor and the entire state, legislative and county tickets. It is essential for better government that you play your part in matters political.

Too bad that Janesville citizens can not stand together on the question of a county ticket so that this city will be given a fair representation in the list of the new county officials.

Now that Janesville has its military
company, the company has its armory,
the public should turn to and help the boys furnish it and show a civic pride in the establishment of a military unit in the city of Janesville.

Real Meaning of Luck.

Luck means the hardships and privations which you have not hesitated to endure; the long nights you have devoted to work. Luck means the appointments you have never failed to keep; the trains you have never failed to catch.—Max O'Reil.

Lightning's Flash.

A flash of lightning lights up the ground for one-millionth of a second,
yet it seems to us to last ever so much longer. What happens is that the impression remains in the retina of the eye for about one-eighth of a second,
or 124,000 times longer than the flash
lasts.

ROY K. MOULTON

Always Behind.
It's usually true when we get a new suit, we have need of a pair of new shoes.
And when we get foot-wear, our time-honored hat is really too shabby to use.
And when we have saved up enough
for a hat, it's certain—as certain as Fate.
The suit we have treasured is either worn out, or far, far away out of date.

We find the same curious trouble in life in things more important by far—
We buy a horse, for our neighbors
have one, and lo, they have purchased a car.
And when we are able to buy us a car, by striking some gold-bearing spot.
We buy, and discover they've sold their machine and purchased a sea-going yacht.

And if by some chance we inherit the yacht—newspapers say some people do.
And like to the shipyard where vessels are made to get us a sea-goer, too.
The dealer will say, "There's a bargain for you, your neighbors are tired of their boat."
The seas were too thick or too deep or too salt to let people easily give up.

And doctors have ordered that they shall break loose and get a complete change of scene.
So here is a bargain—their beautiful yacht, they've purchased a flying machine.

Excuse me a moment, I wish to say damn for bitterness sticks in my cup.
Ambition is urging, but Fate holds my leg to see that I never catch up.

Picked Up a Premature Package.
A rounder was hidden to the house
of a friend whose wife was away
and who was giving a stag party.
The rounder, the house, from the distance, was not great and the guest decided to walk it. He stopped in so many country clubs on the way that when he arrived he was plastered.

Pie eyed,
Poisoned,
Polluted,
Poached and Pestered.
The host met him at the door and took one flash.
"Jack," he said sorrowfully,
"couldn't you trust me?"

Another Substitute.
Harrison G. Shoupe, a school janitor, has discovered that a splendid substitute for gasoline can be made from breakfast food. One ounce of the cereal just what it is he proposes to keep secret) added to five gallons of water is good for 100 miles
the anybody's driver. A ten-cent package contains more potential power than one of John D.'s tank wagons.

Shoupe made his discovery when he accidentally dripped a spoonful of the cereal on his soup-stained vest.
The spots vanished in a trice and an idea was born. He discovered in the course of his experiments that the cereal water would heat a coal stove,
kill cockroaches, operate a blow torch
and perform all the other functions
that have been saddled onto gasoline.
The rest was only a natural development.

Advice to Your—Ladies.
It is better to have loved a fat
man than never to have loved at all.
Don't grab him off just because he wears a violet vest. It isn't an infallible sign of aristocracy.

A man whose ears stick out from his head like the wings of a biplane is apt to be generous to a fault, perhaps more generous to a fault than to anything else.
If you are counting on getting any pin money, marry a man who carries his change loose in his trousers pockets. He may never have very much, but what he has you are welcome to. Beware the string wallets.

BEATING THE GAME.

Before marriage a woman is pensive, afterwards expensive.—Prof.
Gimp.

"How can I serve you, my dear Presbyterian with an unhappy wife?"
said the great detective blandly. "Oh, don't start, sir. It's very simple. Simply very. At one fell deduction, I deduced you are a Presbyterian and that you have an unhappy wife, because I observe that the left shoulder
of your coat has been pressed bears, H'm."
"Marvelous!" She was crying there all morning because I have to pay an income tax," explained the worried looking visitor. "But the object of my call is this. I am a conscientious man, terribly. If there is anything misses in the affairs of any man on my office force, hold myself personally bound to investigate. For good many days now, I have noticed that after disappearing mysteriously

during the lunch hour, my shipping clerk, Wangborn Phipps by name, returns with blood on his fingers. I simply cannot tolerate having a confirmed murderer in my office, so I came to you. I have no fault to find with Phipps otherwise. He is very economical and all that."
"A pretty gas, looking his chow," said
the great detective, frowning his brows.
"H'm. Lunch hour. Where is your place of business, please?"
"Corner of Ditts and Baumheim."
"Solved!" smiled the great detective, with a wink. "Gobglass's saloon is directly across from you—never mind how I know—Gobglass serves the picked best for free lunch every day
—never mind how I know—with no forks to spear them with. Your economical shipping clerk—oh, you grump my point? Not at all, not at all. Ten dollars, please."

5,000,000 PRISONERS
IN FOREIGN CAMPS

Editor of the Gazette:
The "Note by the Editor" following
my letter in last Saturday's evening
Gazette, is incorrect in stating that The special committee referred to in the above article consisted of the following gentlemen: and then giving a list of twenty names. Only eight of the men whose names are given in the list were present to inspect the exhibition in question, which was supposed to be a reproduction of the first performance after the rainstorm
last Thursday. I can give the names of the eight if called upon to do so.
None of the men mentioned in the list
to whose names their official titles were attached were present at that inspection Thursday afternoon. The secretary of the fair association was present, but his name was not included in the list of those present as given by the Gazette. Three ministers and two laymen who visited the show and were present at the reproduction of Thursday afternoon, pronounced the whole show unfit to be allowed at the fair. It was a show for men only.
However, boys in their teens were permitted to enter.
The reproduction of the show was bad, from a moral standpoint: the show itself was very bad. It is one thing for actors to perform before an investigating committee at the beginning of the fair. It is quite another thing for them to perform before a crowd of men who want their money's worth the big day of the fair. I am speaking, of course, concerning an immoral show. It is a very simple matter to change the role to suit conditions.
The shame of it is that the managers of the fair didn't close the show
when the facts were brought to their attention, but merely instructed the show people to tone it down. Such instructions given by the fair authorities amount to an admission that the show wasn't what it ought to be. They occupy the unenviable position of trying to convince the people of Janesville that a certain immoral show operating on the fair grounds wasn't immoral.

CHINESE MONARCHIST'S TRIAL HAS BEEN ORDERED BY NEW PRESIDENT

Chow Tzu-Chi, China's ex-minister of finance.
Chow Tzu-Chi, for several years minister of agriculture and commerce and finance under the late Yuan Shih Kai, has been listed with other monarchists to be punished by the new president and will be put on trial if he can be brought within reach of Chinese jurisdiction.

It can't be done.
Did you note the applause given Governor Philipp last Friday night
when he said that as long as he is governor there will be no objectionable shows at the state fair? That applause was Janesville's plea for the vindication of her honor, and the elimination from her fairs of the show
"for men only." James A. Robinson.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps Tuesday afternoon, August 14. Anna Morse, secretary.

The regular monthly meeting of the Janesville Aid society of the church will be held in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Large attendance is desired. Mrs. M. Burnham, secretary.

Annual picnic at the Wright house, on Rock river, will be held this Friday, August 18. The picnic grounds and friends are cordially invited to a day of pleasure. Picnic dinner and supper. The boat will leave the west dock at 10 a. m., returning in the evening.

Value of Bees on the Farm.

A complete farm should have a few hives of bees. They can supply the family with honey, and the surplus will return good profit. Twenty dollars a hive each year can be realized, when proper methods are used and good care given the "hired girls." Bees pay for themselves in insuring perfect pollination in the orchard. Every hive of bees is a nation unto itself. Every farmer would be a better farmer if he kept bees and profited by the lessons they teach.—American Farmer.

On the Bright Side.

There is a spirit of joy which leads men of the flatter kind into battle. Whether by a dark fate, the struggle is carried on against national enemies, or whether it is a spirit of self, a personal individual battle fought to the last ditch, does not much matter. To the fit and the strong of spirit, there is a personal happiness to be found in worthy conflict as nowhere else.

PAST WEEK QUIET IN POLICE WORK; CHIEF SATISFIED

Champion Elated With Little Trouble Experienced by Department—Only Two Instances of Major Period.

Fair and home coming week passed off satisfactorily in police department circles, according to Chief Champion.

In addition to the extra work done by the police officers during the day and evening and the activity of the twenty special police officers sworn in for special duty at the fair grounds, two railroad detectives, the use of western company, through local agents, had a plain clothes man here throughout the week.

Agent Fred W. Zimmerman secured a Milwaukee road detective for Thursday and Friday, and part of Saturday.

Not a case of pocket-picking, skin game or robbery of any kind, with the exception of the strong arm game worked Friday, came to the attention of the department.

The park police caught the leader of the quinter, who was the only instance of the police slat during the period of the fair.

The occurrence at the Northwestern depot Saturday night was a slight scratch on the night of the week, but with taking the rings of the Evansville girl for examination held at the county jail for examination today morning.

From the number of automobiles which have been stolen in this vicinity lately Chief Champion waited every Janesville watch being taken. None were stolen. However, he issued another warning this morning for car thefts as getting more numerous each day.

Chief questions MAN AND GIRL ON SHOOTING AFFAIR

Calls Father of Seven and Boarder Into Station to Learn of Affair

Some Time Ago.

Chief of Police Champion this morning questioned Bert Parish, 321 Racine street, relative to a shooting affair in which it is alleged he shot himself twice in the head and hit Rice, 22, a boarder at the home, in the right arm.

The chief questioned the girl, who received by the police a Pariah attempted to deny that she turned the gun on herself.

Parish, at the station, denied that he shot himself, but claimed that he was shot as he attempted to wrest the gun from his grasp when he tried to shoot himself.

Giving Him Confidence.

It was his first campaign, his first political speech, even. Although the county committee had sent him into a rural district to try out his oratorical wings, he was encouraged by the warm welcome of the local committee and the elaborate preparations for the meeting that were evident on all sides.

There was even a band that played on the stand in the public square for half an hour before the speech. Finally the great moment arrived. The chairman stepped to the platform and addressed the crowd.

"Fellow citizens," he said, "we have with us today a young man who is destined to make his mark in the ranks of our party. He comes to tell us of the burning issues that confront us, and his fame as an orator has preceded him. He will now address you, and when he has finished the band will call you together again."—Youth's Companion.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Ormi Hawley, who makes her appearance shortly in a big feature, has grown very familiar to moving picture fans during her five years on the screen, and is justly popular. She has appeared in more than one hundred pictures.

She is a Massachusetts beauty. Born in Holyoke, she went from a girl's college directly into one of the better known Boston stock companies. Though successful on the stage she took up screen work in 1911 and has since remained in silent drama.

Miss Hawley has a number of hobbies. She drives a high powered roadster, is a good mechanic, loves interior decorating, music, hunting and dancing, has a clear soprano voice and swims like a Honolulu beach comber.

MORE POWER TO OHIO CENSORS

The days of the scenario writer who wins laughs by endowing the hero with courage enough to push a policeman backward into an artificial lake, are done—so says the Ohio censor board.

The board has ordered all scenes of this nature cut from the Masque Ball, a one-reel comedy. The board also objects to a scene in which a police judge leans over the bench and raps for order, using the bald spot of a prisoner as a sounding board.

WHO IS BETTY LAWSON?

Betty Lawson! Do you know her? She was a little Boston schoolgirl whom a big moving picture producer saw great screen possibilities in and has promised the public—and Betty—to make her the most popular star in the world in one little year.

Betty Lawson she once was, but now she is better known as June Caprice. "Little Miss Happiness" is to be the title of her next picture.

Mme. Petrova, one of the screen's most brilliant and popular stars, has begun work on a new story, as yet unnamed, which she wrote herself. The Central theme deals with the marriage question from an economic standpoint and contains many numerous situations which will be a devised innovation and novelty in a Petrova feature. Mme. Petrova has just completed a big production, "The Secret of Eve," which is scheduled for early release.

Lester Cuneo, who plays the part of an Indian in "Mister 44," a forthcoming release, in which Harold Lockwood and May Allison play the starring roles, wore as his costume during the filming of the five act play the outfit once worn by Bear Crow, Comanche Indian. The outfit has been in Mr. Cuneo's possession since childhood.

It was a gift to the actor's father by Bear Crow.

Seventeen hundred churches have taken out movie licenses and charge admission.

Business System in Paraguay.

An unusual custom prevails in Paraguay, and it is known as "contra accounts." The wholesaler sells the goods he buys from the foreign manufacturer to small dealers through the interior of the country, and makes over the bills against these small dealers to the manufacturer from whom he purchases as collateral security for his own indebtedness. The established length for credits, in this country, is six months.

All That Happened.

My tiny niece has a propensity for playing with the telephone, for which she has received many scoldings, but to little avail, writes a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. Her mother heard a crash the other day and called in: "Viola, what have you done?" The little miss replied: "I didn't hurt it this time, mother. Just the 'number, please,' came out."

Unkind.

"I don't see why you are so down on Jones." "He once tried to rob me of my reputation." "You shouldn't have stopped him."—Boston Transcript.

Lost Valuables Strangely Found.

A New York hotel man told this experience: "Visiting Bridgeport, he went down the bay one afternoon and seating himself on a rock, idly beat the water with his cane. A loose-fitting diamond ring fell from his finger and disappeared. The next morning at low tide he again visited the spot, but without much hope. Upon the very edge of a rock, at that tide high and dry, lay the ring. If it had fallen a sixteenth of an inch farther out it would have gone down in ten feet of water."

Monkeys Attract the Most Attention

There is a story in the old Second Reader about a monkey who, on the authority of Mr. Arsep, always burst into tears when strolling through a cemetery. And when, one day, a reporter asked him what ailed him, he sobbed: "I always weep like this when I am reminded of my poor dead ancestors."

Charlie Smith, superintendent of Ringling Brothers' menagerie, used to study the Second Reader. Just now he studies seven lion elephants, man and moose hipponotami and about a thousand other charges in fur and feathers. But most of all he studies monkeys. He never tires of gathering a crowd around one of the Simian hostilities in the menagerie tent on circus day to give an illustrated lecture on monkeyology. And he never fails to tell that old yarn from the Second Reader.

Smith asserts that the monkeys attract more attention than any other species of animal in all the 108 cages of the Ringling zoo.

"Of course," he says, "now we have added the so-called lion slayer monkey and the several varieties of black apes and baboons to our collection we have a truly remarkable variety of Simians. This in part accounts for the fact that the majority of patrons are partial to the monkey exhibit. But more variety seems hardly a sufficient reason to explain why monkeys are preferred to such priceless animals as the giraffes, the two-horned rhinoceros and other of our menagerie inhabitants, any one of which has a greater cash value than all the monkeys put together. My solution is that it is because Mr. Monkey is a born actor. He turns every cage into a theatre and so, in spite of his handicap, captures the crowd. It seems as though the racials actually feed upon admiration. There's old Cap, Congo, for instance. Since he is thought to be the biggest monkey ever taken captive and so quite able to do his act 'single as they say in vaudeville' do you suppose he does? Not a bit of it. An, thinks he has to have a real act with a supporting cast. So he has made friends with Tommy Tickers, one of the riding dogs. And whenever a sufficient crowd gathers before his glass front apartment, the venerable 'Cap' puts his arms around Tommy as much as to say, 'See the happy family.' Of course this makes a hit with the audience and many stay for the second show. Then the trunks begin to fan fare for the rising of the curtain on the 'Chinderella' spectacle in the main tent, and everybody scarts for their seats. In the meantime the giraffe family has been playing to empty chairs and Miss Sadee, the giant black African hipponotamus, has been lucky if she opened her mouth to half a house. (I don't think I am exaggerating when I say that two-thirds of the people who visit the Ringling show miss a great part of the many wonderful things in our menagerie tent because they get a high sign from some wise old Simian half way down the avenue and let him and his vain comrades keep them until its time to go into the big show tent. Guess Brother Dar, the big show tent, has been right and Mr. Arsep, too. It's just a case of that old Second Reader yarn being reversed for the monkey in the fable cried while folks who look at the monkeys mostly laugh."

The Ringling Brothers' circus, including Cap, Congo and the rest of the menagerie, will be "at home" to Janesville folks on Wednesday next.

"Blue Blood and Red."

Doris Pawn and George Walsh will be featured at the Beverly on Tuesday in "Blue Blood and Red," a thrilling western romance.

Dismissed from college and disowned by his millionaire father, Algy Dupont light-heartedly sets forth in his high powered racing car to "See America."

He kidnaps Petekins, the family butler.

After many days of arduous going, the auto pioneers find themselves stranded in Red Gulch, Mont.

Algy wins one hundred dollars and a reputation by knocking out a local White Hope.

Algy meets Mildred Demarest and through her he accepts a job on the ranch of her father.

His experiences on the ranch make a story that will grip the attention and hold it throughout.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been keeping company with a girl who is two years my senior and she asked when I went to visit her and asked very strangely. Up to this point she had a great deal to do with me. Finally I said to her to correspond with me and wrote her a few letters. I became angry again and quit writing. About four weeks ago I received a letter from her, which I answered, and she has received no reply. Can you give me information of what to do?

(2) I am broken out very badly with the heat. Can you give me a remedy good for it? EOB

(3) If you can't very much help me, please write me.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am ninety years old and I have gone with a very tired and lame. She seemed to be together and I learned to love her very much. We finally became engaged. All at once she quit me and I can't imagine what I have done, unless it is that I smoke, which is the worst habit I have. I am going away, for I believe she has tired of me. Then I sent gray hair.

To give gray hair black use sage tea. To steady the nerves and to give the hair a harmless coloring lotion use three ounces of green tea and dried sage leaves steeped in water until only two ounces of water are left. When reduced in this manner it must be used for twenty-four hours, and then the liquid should be strained off. More than one application of this is required to get the best effects, and a small brush or comb is best. It must be applied nightly, and unnecessary care is taken will keep long without souring, and I know of nothing to preserve it.

Thoroughly wash stalks of rhubarb, dice and crush with a potato masher until considerable juice is extracted. Then fill well sterilized cans with the rhubarb, pressing down until the juice overflows, and seal. Add neither sugar nor water and be sure that your cans and covers are well sterilized. Rhubarb canned in this way is just as fresh and fine as if taken right from the garden and can be used in the same manner and for the same purposes.

Six ears corn, six large cucumbers, six large onions, six large green tomatoes, three red peppers, one bunch celery, three flat leaved ground mustard, three cents worth of mustard seed, one quart vinegar, one pound granulated sugar, small amount of salt.

Cut all ingredients up fine and boil fifteen minutes and you will find that you have one of the most delicious relishes made. Put in self sealers and same will keep for any length of time.

MARMALADE.
Eight large, juicy, ripe oranges and two large, juicy lemons. Peel six of the oranges and one lemon, rejecting the pips, and cut the pulp on both sides of remaining oranges and lemon. Cross cut them slice thin, making small pieces. Add six quarts of cold water and let stand twenty-four hours. Then boil twenty minutes. Remove from the fire and let stand twenty-four hours again. To each quart of the liquid add a scant two-thirds of a quart of granulated sugar, and boil in that quantity, boiling rapidly, until

This rich, golden colored preserve is excellent from every point of view. It is made from the best quality of fruit, season from odds and ends of small quantities of peaches, pears, quinces and other fruit on hand.

Take equal quantities of peaches, pears, apples and quinces that have been pared, cored and cut fine. To six pounds of fruit allow one pint of sugar. Put the quinces in first and cook them for an hour. Add the remainder. Stir thoroughly and slowly without letting them burn. Take out and mash well together.

Strain the kettle, return the fruit to it. Add one and one-half teaspoons of granulated sugar to each pound of fruit. Cook the strained juice of two lemons and two tablespoons of glucose for nearly two hours. Put up in small jars and cover airtight.

Wash carefully and cover with cold water over night. Stone the prunes and dates, boil all together until soft enough to pass through a fruit sieve or colander. Use a half cup of granulated sugar to each cup of pulp and boil again slowly, stirring continually.

To two pounds of peaches, which have been peeled and pits removed, add a half pint of vinegar; cook together until soft. Mix a quarter pound each of white mustard seed, chopped onions, raisins and gar, two ounces of scraped ginger root and one ounce of red pepper, then well mixed add to the peaches other half pint of vinegar. Place jars and seal.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 14.—Women rookies of the west, numbering about 300, will answer the call of reveille at 6:30 tomorrow morning at the women's military training camp established here—the Chevy Chase of the west.

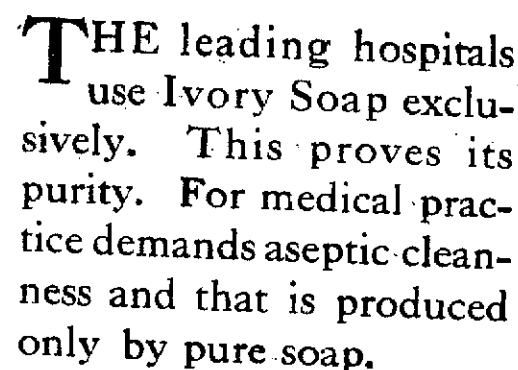

The women will do everything about the camp except cook. Cooks have been hired to get the meals, but the women rookies will be given the work in dietetics. Besides this they will be taught how to make surgical dressings, perform military drills, ambulance driving, and telephone work.

Of course there must be some one to run the camp. But they will be used only as supervisors and will be limited at night. They will not be allowed to enter the regular camp grounds.

The women, some of whom arrived today, are equipped with regular uniform, a double blanket, dressing gown, rubber sheets, two pillow cases, glass tumbler, bed linen, bath bloomers, high, tan, low heeled shoes, toilet articles, and rubbers.

Leola Poe Wilson has charge of the camp.

THOSE FORTY-LEVEN VASES.

If you were asked you to carry a trip, and someone asked you to carry a lot of things in your pack, that you don't really need at all, wouldn't you say they were asking absurd and unreasonable things?

Yes, you would. Well, I was calling in the name of a recent bride the other day. On the piano were eight vases and two bowls.

On the upper shelf the double number of eight pieces of bric-a-brac—eight vases, more vases. On the lower shelf there were nine bedside clocks (including five more vases). Some Day She Will Go to the Hospital.

On the wall were were forty-one pictures. Think of dusting that every day, and I know she does that, because she is a most conscientious housekeeper.

Some day I expect to hear that she has gone to the sanitarium. They will assign all kinds of reasons for her nervous exhaustion (that's the word you know, nervous prostration, you put), but I shall know the real reason—too many bric-a-brac. I saw many of us carry too much of it on our trip through the country.

I have illustrated with material possessions, but I don't mean those alone.

There Are Other Kinds of Bric-a-brac.

There are all kinds of bric-a-brac besides those which we clutter our houses with.

There are the kind we have in our heads and minds.

There are bric-a-brac prejudices we have picked up here and there and set up in your minds and that have been wasted and aired and shown about on a secret.

We could be happier and freer if we were broader-minded without them. We don't realize it any more than a bride realizes that she would be happier and freer without half of that glass and silver bric-a-brac.

We Always Have and Will Prefer Bric-a-brac.

Then there are bric-a-brac notions, the kind that don't have any logical reason or justice but are cherished just because they always have been considered valuable, and don't have the strength of mind to throw them away.

And then there's bric-a-brac fear, those foolish, futile fears that clutter our hearts and crush us in our hearts and bowels.

Everything, every idea and every passion that adds nothing to the happiness and efficiency of our lives and impedes our lives is bric-a-brac.

It will soon be fall house-cleaning time. Why not clear out and simplify your life?

Training a Husband

which the Reader is Introduced to a Nervous Husband and a Patient Wife.

Morris Southby, called out from the top of a step ladder in the tool box? It certainly would not be on a high shelf in the pantry answered a pleasant voice.

"I don't know about that," I have looked in all the likely places, and now I'm trying the unlikely," was the petulant answer.

"With two striking boys, I suppose it is hard work to keep track of it," the pleasant voice again replied.

"I wish you would come and help me to get our packing done and out of the house by the first of March. I can't spend my days doing these things."

Morris Southby did not reply, but he joined patiently in the work for the hammer. She thought it was the work done for six months, and the packing of the boxes that it is never safe to leave alone. She had about as much as a small, vigorous woman could at that time. Hers was not the complaining type, however. She cheerfully did her share and her husband, had grown capable management, had grown used to her ministrations as a part of his life, as he did the weather.

Flakes were scattered on the ground, while rainy weather was a pleasant necessity to be endured as a little show of irritation as a distressing warrant.

"Where did you had the hammer this morning, Rogers?" he called after the four-year-old boy, who ran through the yard.

"But I saw father using it nailing those boxes of books," replied the boy, as he disappeared from view.

"That's certainly. That was early this morning. If people in this house were to learn to leave things where they belong, there would be a lot of energy saved. Snapped Morris.

"How should I know, in this confusion?" It is enough to drive a man wild," he exploded.

It is not exactly a summer of picnic for the rest of us. There was a little touch of sanity in Marla's answer, as she led the team to look for the lost hammer where the nailing of book boxes had taken place.

"There is the hammer. It was right where you left it. This is another proof that your things are not touched." She handed the stick to her husband, who took it and accepted it gracefully. "It takes the edge off the rule. Anyway, I am glad to get hold of it. A vigorous pounding ensued, and almost immediately the wail of a baby was heard through the confusion.

"There was a afraid that would wake the baby," sighed the tired mother.

"Well, the packing has to be done. If the baby can't sleep through it, I will have to wake up. More pounding. There is no noise in a baby being so sensitive to noise. His remarks were lost, for the mother had gone to soothe the wailing babe. (To me continued.)

TEXAS SOCIETY GIRLS ARMED WITH BOMB BONS OPEN PREPAREDNESS CAMPAIGN

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—You Can't Blame Father for the Mistake

During the ensuing performance Lorelei pondered her friend's disquieting prophecy; yet she could see no reason for grave apprehension. Publicity of the kind threatened would, of course, be disagreeable; but how it could seriously affect her was not apparent.

Later in the evening Robert Wharton appeared, as usual, and so resentful was he at the deceptions previously practiced upon him that Lorelei with difficulty escaped a scene. At last he planted himself in the hallway, where he remained throughout the performance—a gloomy, watchful figure. Lorelei came down boldly, dressed for the street, and since she could not pass the besieger, crossed under the stage, made her way into the orchestra pit, and managed to leave the theater by the front door.

She was waiting when Jim came home, and followed him into his room, where they could talk without disturbing their father. Lorelei made her accusation boldly, prepared for the usual burst of anger, but Jim listened patiently until she paused.

"I knew you had to spill this, so I let you rave," said he. "But it's too late; somebody has been after Hammon for a long time, and he's been got—yes, and got good. Take a flash at the 'Chorus Girl's Bible.' He tossed his sister a copy of a prominent theatrical paper. 'I waited until it came out.'"

Lorelei gasped, for on the front page glared black-typed headlines of the Hammon scandal. John Merkle's name was there, too, and linked with it, her own.

"What is this?" She ran her eye swiftly down the column.

"Sneak Melcher commenced suit against Hammon this afternoon. Fifty thousand dollars for alienation of Lili's affections. Joke, eh? He claims there was a common-law marriage and he'll get the coin."

"But Mrs. Hammon?"

"The evidence is in her hands already—dates, places, photographs, everything. She'll win her suit, too."

"Were you by any chance working for Mrs. Hammon?"

Divining his sister's prejudice, Jim lied promptly and convincingly. "Why, Mrs. Hammon, of course. I had a chance to turn a few dollars, and I took it."

"But why did you drag me in? Couldn't you keep me out of it? This is dreadful." As she ran her eye over make people talk about you, sis, and this'll bring a gang of high rollers your way. You've been so blamed proper that nobody's interested in you any more."

For a moment Lorelei scrutinized her brother in silence, taken aback at his outrageous philosophy. Jim had changed greatly, she mused; not until very lately had she observed the full measure of the change in him. He was no longer the country boy, the playmate and confidant of her youth, but a man, sophisticated, hard, secretive. He had been thoroughly Manhattanized, she perceived, and he was as foreign to her as a stranger. She shook her head hopelessly.

"You're a strange brother," she said. "I hardly know what to make of you. Has the city killed every decent instinct in you, Jim?"

"Now, don't begin on the Old Home stuff," he replied, testily. "Do you really intend to marry a bunch of coin?"

"That's the program, isn't it? I've been raised for that and nothing else."

"Well, ma can't put it over, so I guess it's up to me." After a moment he added, "Would you accept Merkle?"

Lorelei shivered. "Oh—no! Not Mr. Merkle."

"Humph! You ought to consider the rest of us a little bit. Pa could be cured, ma'd be happy. I could get on my feet. How about Bob Wharton?"

"Let's not talk about it, please. Mr. Wharton is getting nasty, and I'm beginning to be afraid of him."

"I'll bet you could land him—"

"Please, I don't want to think about it. I dare say I'll bring myself to marry some rich man some day; but—Merkle—Wharton—" She shuddered for a second time. "If Mr. Wharton is serious this scandal will scare him off, or else he'll become just like the others. I could cry. He threatened me tonight; I don't know how I'll manage to avoid him tomorrow night."

"Hm—! He's coming that strong, eh?" was Jim's interested query; but on hearing his sister's account of the young millionaire's determined pursuit he volunteered in his offhand way to assist her.

"I'll come for you myself, and we'll whip over to a cafe for supper."

"You'll save me from him," said Lorelei, with a wan smile, "and I'll know that you are in good company for one evening at least."

"Don't lose any sleep over my habits," he told her, lightly.

As Jim and his mother breakfasted together on the following morning he broached the subject of his recent conversation with Lorelei.

"She's sore about the story," he said. "We had a long talk last night."

"I know she would be, and I'm not sure it was a good thing."

"We'll drag something out of it if you do your part. Merkle will pay. Don't mention money—nothing but marriage—understand? Outraged motherhood, ruined daughter, blasted career—that's yours. I'll be the brother who's in the position of a father to her. I can threaten, but you mustn't. Goldberg will close for us."

"I don't see why we have to divide with a lawyer, when it's our affair and we can handle it ourselves," his mother complained.

"I tell you it's got to go through the regular channels. This was Melcher's idea, and since I'm in on the Hammon money, Max is entitled to his bit of this. Gee! If she'd only told us she was going out with Merkle we might have framed something worth while—I don't mind telling you this is a pretty weak case."

"Wouldn't he marry her?"

"Not a chance. In the first place, she wouldn't have him. Bob Wharton is the white hope."

"She hates him, too. Goodness knows what we're going to do with her."

"I think she'll stand for Wharton if we work her right; it's him, or nobody. She's getting harder to handle every day, though, and one of these times she'll fall for some rummy. If she ever does lose her head she'll skid for the ditch, and we can kiss ourselves goodby. She'll be as easy to steer as a wild bear by the tail. I guess you're sorry now that you didn't listen to me and let Max handle her before she got wise."

"I wouldn't feel safe with any of that crowd. I'd be terribly afraid," Mrs. Knight shook her head dubiously.

"Say! She's got you doing it, too. Why, they don't take a chance. Goldberg handles the legal end, and his brother is in the legislature. But that's not all; Melcher's partner in his gambling house is Inspector Snell. You can't beat that."

"Just the same, I'm frightened—and this isn't honest. I wish she would listen to Robert Wharton."

James winked meaningfully. "Leave that to me. She's going to Proctor's with me tonight. Maybe he'll join us. But meanwhile we've got Merkle for some quick money if we work him right. I'm off for Goldy's office now. I'll meet you at three."

When Jim appeared, dressed for the street, he gave a bit of parting advice: "Better lay on the hysterics when she wakes up. It'll make it easier for me tonight."

Lorelei found her mother visibly upset by the story in the morning's newspaper.

"You told me you only went to supper with that man," Mrs. Knight cried, tragically. "Instead of that you two were off in the country together all night. Here's the whole thing." She brandished the paper dramatically.

"Well, I told you a fib. But there's no harm done."

"Harm, indeed? You're ruined. I never read anything more disgraceful! I don't show it to Peter—it would kill him. What ever possessed you, after the way we've watched over you, after the care we've taken of you? It's terrible."

"Why, mother! You're more insulting than that newspaper. The career of a show-girl is something of a joke," Lorelei undertook to laugh, but the attempt failed rather dismally.

"Indeed, what will the other men say? You had a character; nobody could say a word against you until now. Do you think any decent man would marry a girl who did a thing like this? Of course, I know you're a good girl; but they don't, and they'll believe absolutely the worst. You've spoiled everything, my dear! I'm completely discouraged."

Mrs. Knight began to weep in a weak, heart-broken manner, expecting Lorelei to melt, as usual; but, seeing something in her daughter's expression that warned her not to carry her reproaches too far, she broke out: "You're so hard, so unreasonable. Don't you see I'm frantic with worry? You're all we have, and—the thought of an injury to your prospects nearly kills me. You misunderstand everything I say. I wish you were safely married and out of danger. I think I could die happy then."

---and the Worst Is Yet to Come

"I Wish I Were Married and Out of the Way."

It means so much to all of us to have you settled right away. Peter is filling every day; Jim is going to the dogs, and—I'm sick over it all."

"I wish I were married and out of the way. You would all be fixed, at least. I don't much care about myself," Lorelei sighed in hopeless weariness of spirit, for variations of this scene had been common of late, and they always filled her with the blackest pessimism.

"Maybe Mr. Merkle—"

"We'll leave him out of this," declared Lorelei; "he's too decent to have a person like me foisted upon him—and there's no reason whatever why he should be held responsible for my notoriety." She turned away from the dining room with a shudder of distaste. "I don't want any breakfast. I think I'll get some air."

As soon as she was out in the street she turned southward involuntarily, and set off toward the establishment of Adoree Demorest.

Mrs. Knight dried her eyes and began to dress herself carefully, preparatory to a journey into the Wall street section of the city, for the hour was drawing on toward three o'clock.

Meanwhile Jim, having transacted his business at Goldberg's office, sought a more familiar haunt on one of the side streets among the forties. Here, just off Broadway, was a famous barber shop—a spotless place, with white interior and tiled walls. Six Italians in stiff duck coats practiced their arts at a row of well-combed chairs. A wasp-waisted girl sat at the manicure table next the front windows. As Jim entered she was holding the hand of a jaded person in a light-gray suit, and murmuring over it with an occasional upward glance from a pair of bold, dark eyes. "Tony the Barber," engaged in administering a shampoo, nodded at Jim, and from force of habit murmured politely: "Next."

Then, with a meaning glance, he indicated a door at the rear of the shop. In the third chair Jim recognized Max Melcher, although the face of the sporting man was swathed in steaming cloths.

Jim passed on and into a rear room, where he found three men seated at a felt-covered table. They were well dressed, quiet persons—one a bookmaker whom the racing laws had reduced from affluence to comparative penury; another, a tall, pallid youth with bulging eyes. The third occupant of the room was an ex-lightweight champion of the ring, Young Sullivan by name. His trim waist and powerful shoulders betokened his trade. His jaw was firm, and a cauliflower ear overhung his collar like a fungus.

Jim drew up a chair and chatted idly until the bookmaker yawned, rose, and went out. Then Jim and the others relaxed.

"Gee, he's a sticker!" exclaimed the pugilist. "I thought he'd broke his back."

"Max is getting his map greased," the pop-eyed youth explained. Taking a pasteboard box from his pocket, he removed a heroin tablet therefrom and crushed it; the powder he held in the indentation between the base of his closed thumb and first finger, known as "the rimble"; then, with a quick inhalation, he drew the drug up his nostrils. "Have an angel?" he inquired, offering the box.

Jim accepted, but Young Sullivan declined.

"What's the news?" the latter inquired.

"I've seen Goldy," replied Jim. "Mother and I will call on Merkle at three. I finally got her to consent."

It means so much to all of us to have you settled right away. Peter is filling every day; Jim is going to the dogs, and—I'm sick over it all."

"I wish I were married and out of the way. You would all be fixed, at least. I don't much care about myself," Lorelei sighed in hopeless weariness of spirit, for variations of this scene had been common of late, and they always filled her with the blackest pessimism.

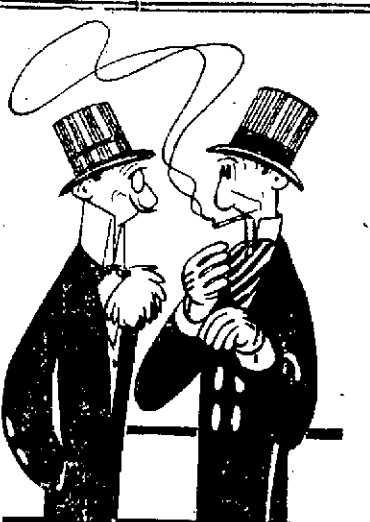

"Maybe Mr. Merkle—"

"We'll leave him out of this," declared Lorelei; "he's too decent to have a person like me foisted upon him—and there's no reason whatever why he should be held responsible for my notoriety." She turned away from the dining room with a shudder of distaste. "I don't want any breakfast. I think I'll get some air."

As soon as she was out in the street she turned southward involuntarily, and set off toward the establishment of Adoree Demorest.

Mrs. Knight dried her eyes and began to dress herself carefully, preparatory to a journey into the Wall street section of the city, for the hour was drawing on toward three o'clock.

Meanwhile Jim, having transacted his business at Goldberg's office, sought a more familiar haunt on one of the side streets among the forties. Here, just off Broadway, was a famous barber shop—a spotless place, with white interior and tiled walls. Six Italians in stiff duck coats practiced their arts at a row of well-combed chairs. A

Dinner Stories

Once an old lady was being shown over Nelson's ship Victory. As the party approached the spot where Nelson met his death, the attendant pointed to the brass plate fixed in the deck and said:

"That is where Nelson fell."

The old lady was impressed, but not in the right way.

"No wonder!" she said. "I nearly tripped over that thing myself."

A motor car was held up in a busy street by a wagon drawn by two horses. The driver seemed in no hurry to get out of the way, and at length one of the occupants of the motor car exclaimed sarcastically:

"Here, I say, my man! What are these things you are driving? What are they for, I should like to know?"

"These 'ere 'orse-drawns," answered the carrier, flicking the horses with his whip. "Oh, these is wot is commonly called 'orses, an' they're sometimes used fer to take motorists to the 'ospital!'"

"It is no use trying to get away from the solemn fact that the woman of today is a most practical and resourceful creature," said the man who has known a few.

"What makes you think so?" a friend asked.

"The unsentimental attitude of a girl I know. I told her that she had inspired some of my best poems. She didn't say a word about the poems, but she wrote to my publishers for a percentage of the royalties."

Nature's Plan.

Nature, the meditative man of the world seems to say, has no necessary contact with pain, and yet willingly assumes the burden. The great physician's answer seems to be: "Stay your wonder; it is this very pain, this apparent inconsistency of nature, that brings out man's supremest qualities of virtue and knowledge, making him a veritable god."

Stops Nose Bleed.

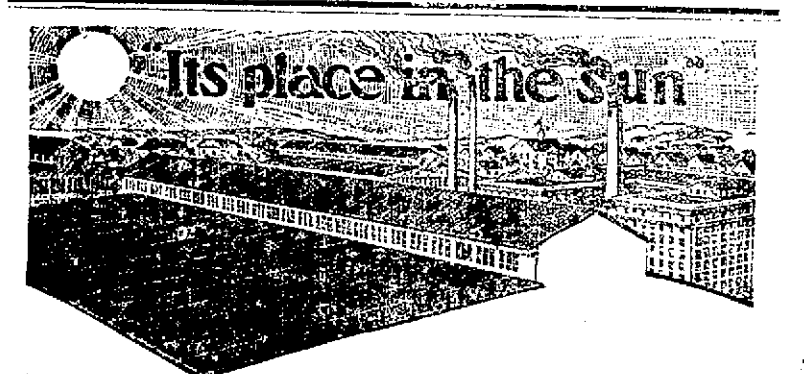

Take a small piece of cotton; saturate it with vinegar, and insert in the nostril that is bleeding. Let it stay for a few minutes, when the bleeding will cease entirely.

Creation.

To the sum total of the matter and energy of the universe nothing has ever been added, and from them nothing has ever been subtracted. Things are perpetually changing from one form into another—from one form of matter to another form of matter, from one form of force to another form of force—but amidst the eternal transformation nothing is created, nothing annihilated.

Willing to Carry It a Little Way.

"Great wealth is a burden. It shouldn't mind having it long enough to become a little fatigued."—Boston Transcript.

TO hold "its place in the sun," is the avowed purpose of a great nation's conflict. To hold "its place in the sun," is the object of every business in the great fight for industrial and commercial supremacy.

To be able to hold "its place in the sun," is the supreme test of an asphalt roof. It is the sun, not rain or snow, that plays havoc with a roof. If it can resist the drying out process of the sun beating down upon it, day after day, the rain or snow will not affect it except to wash it clean and keep it sanitary.

Certain-teed Roofing

takes "its place in the sun" and holds it longer than other similar roofing, because it is made of the very best quality roofing felt, thoroughly saturated with the correct blend of soft asphalt, and coated with a blend of harder asphalts. This outer coating keeps the inner saturation soft, and prevents the drying out process so destructive to the ordinary roof.

The blend of asphalts used by "The General" is the result of long experience. It produces a roofing more pliable than those which have less saturation, and which are, therefore, harder and drier.

At each of the General's big mills, expert chemists are constantly employed to refine, test and blend the asphalts used; also to experiment for possible improvements. Their constant endeavor is to make the best roofing still better.

The quality of CERTAIN-TEED is such that it is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply). Experience proves that it lasts longer. Behind this guarantee is the responsibility of the world's largest manufacturer of roofings and building papers.

HORNSBY, ST. LOUIS NEW BATSMAN STAR

National League Player Showing Up the Old Heads With the Club in Third Place.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Hornsby of St. Louis, one of the new stars of the National league, has attained third place among its batters. Robertson still holding first and Daubert second. Hornsby leads in total bases with 169; Carey, Pittsburgh, in stolen bases with 34; Plack, Chicago, in sacrifice hits with 30; Williams, Chicago, in home runs with 10; Burns, New York, in runs scored with 26; and Brooks, in club batting with 26. The leading batters, among those who have played half or more of their teams' games, including last Wednesday's, are as follows: Robertson, New York, 355; Daubert, Brooklyn, 328; Hornsby, St. Louis, 321; Wagner, Pittsburgh, 315; Chase, Cincinnati, 314; Long, St. Louis, 313; Zimmerman, Chicago, 300; Wheat, Brooklyn, 299; Hinchman, Pittsburgh, 294; Whitted, Philadelphia, 294; Schulte, Pittsburgh, 293.

Speaker, Cobb, Jackson. There were few changes among American league batters. Speaker, Cobb and Jackson are relatively in about the same positions. Cobb now has 40 stolen bases, while Speaker leads in sacrifice hits with 31; Baker, New York, in home runs with eight; Jackson in total bases with 202; Speaker in runs scored with 76, and Detroit in team hitting with 8. Leading batters: Speaker, Cleveland, 330; Cobb, Detroit, 325; Jackson, Chicago, 341; Roth, Cleveland, 312; Sinker, St. Louis, 298; Felsch, Chicago, 295; Nunamaker, New York, 287; Hobbis, Boston, 284; Burns, Detroit, 282; Strunk, Philadelphia, 282.

ISELL, FORMER WHITE SOX, MAY HEAD WESTERN LEAGUE

Chicago, Aug. 14.—It is reported around the local baseball circles that Frank "Izzy" Isbell, the former White Sox, now head of the Des Moines club of the Western league, has been succeeded as the next president of the Western league. Rumor has it that several of the club owners in the league have already expressed a willingness to make the Des Moines man the head of the league. Isbell has had years of experience in the game and he is well versed in the rules of the national pastime. He is well adapted to the place because of his judicious temperament and is very popular with baseball people all over the country.

JACK MURRAY HITS HOT CLIP IN I. L.

Jack Murray, former outfield star with the Giants and Cubs, is hitting a hot clip with Joe Birmingham's Toronto International league team. Jack has been the team's best bet through their climb upwards and looks good for a return to fast company.

STATE GOLF HONORS TO NED ALLIS AGAIN

Milwaukee Club Player In Record Breaking Match at Kenosha Tourney.

In the longest championship match ever staged in the United States Ned Allis of the Milwaukee Country club defeated Dick Cavanagh of Kenosha, 1 up, in forty-two holes for the state golf championship at Kenosha on Saturday. It was the fourth Wisconsin title for the Milwaukee youngster. The match was squared on the thirty-sixth hole. For five holes the stars played even, but Allis took the forty-second.

Dick Cavanagh of Kenosha was 1 up at the end of the morning's play over the eighteen hole route for the state championship. Allis played a handsome game, but Cavanagh, by his magnificent recoveries, was able to hold the lead most of the morning. Allis' best shot was his tee shot on No. 6, when he dropped the ball down to the out for a 2 from a distance of 162 yards. Cavanagh scored a three on the fourteenth par 4 by a long drive, handsome approach and a good putt. The scores were: Cavanagh ... 344 44 44 45—37 Allis ... 355 53 27 36—39

TIGERS BEAT SOX; BACK TO THIRD NOW

Hits and Errors Give Detroit Game Yesterday at Comiskey Park—Shano Collins Drops Fly.

Detroit's victory over the White Sox yesterday pushed the last falling: less they take to third place and unless they fall still farther before the eastern trip, which opens tomorrow, will have been finished. The final count was 9 to 4 with three Sox pitchers experiencing a rough and rocky road in the periods when they worked. Fournier will be back on first base for some time. Jack Ness was hit on the finger with a pitched ball and the member was badly bruised. The Sox tied up the count in the sixth with heavy hitting of Coveleskie's offerings in the fourth. Shano Collins' muff let two Tigers cross the plate and it was all off with the Rowlands.

BOBBY ROTH HITTING GREAT FOR CLEVELAND INDIANS

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—Bobby Roth came to bat forty-eight times in ten of the Indians' home games and 25 hits for an average of .521 in those ten games. In only one game did he go hitless, facing Foster and Leonard of the Red Sox three times without a hit, though he made one sacrifice and drew a pass in the game. His hits in the dozen games included four doubles and a triple and he stole eight bases.

ROTH POLES HOMER; INDIANS BEAT BROWNS

Roth's home run in the ninth gave Cleveland a 4 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Browns yesterday. Weillman started for St. Louis, but after pitching to four batters he gave way to Cavenport. Lambert, for the Indians, lasted until the ninth, when he became wild and was replaced by Bagby. The Browns tied it up in the ninth and won Hamilton in the box Roth hit his home.

WELSH AND WHITE IN LABOR DAY BOUT

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Charlie White, the local lightweight, will leave for Colorado Springs in a few days to train for his bout there with Freddie Welsh for the lightweight championship on Labor Day. White said he was in fine condition at present but will put in several days of hard work in preparation for the battle. The bout is for twenty rounds.

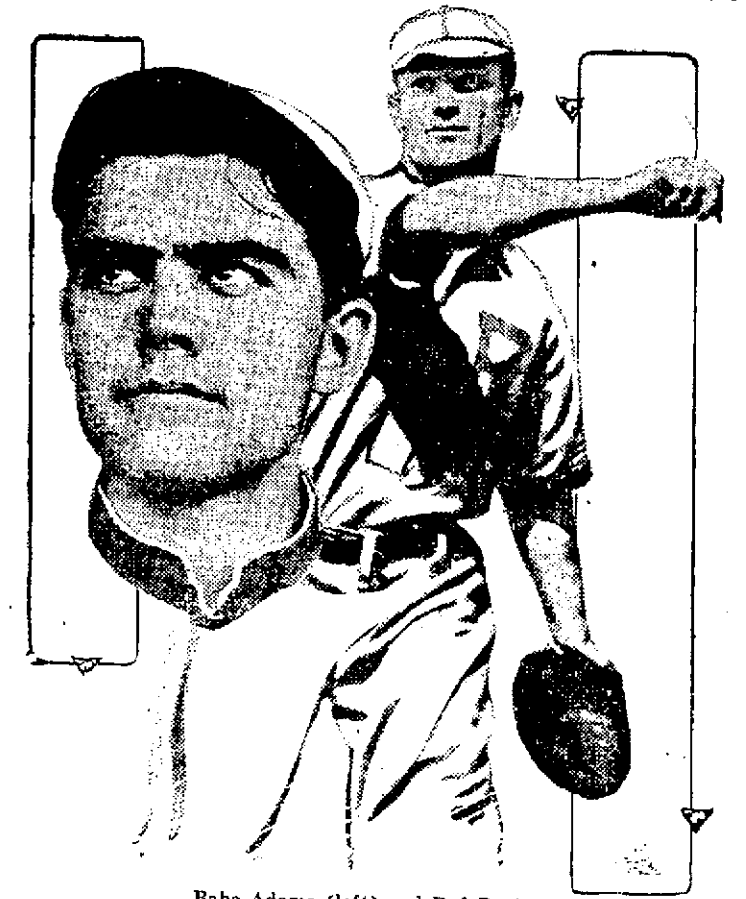

STATE TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT MILWAUKEE SUNDAY

Milwaukee, Aug. 14.—The state tennis tournament, which opens Aug. 20, promises to have a large field of entrants. It is understood that Heath Byford, Al Lidauer and three tennis stars of Chicago will participate. In all, about a dozen Chicago candidates have signified a desire to compete. Byford is the title holder, but Thornton Green and Walter Hayes probably will oppose him.

FORT GETS TWENTY HITS; DEFEAT MADISON 14 TO 5

Madison, Wis., Aug. 14.—When Ray Cannon was hit with a batted ball and forced to retire from today's game and the relief pitchers could not stave off the attack of the Fort batters, Fort Atkinson gathered twenty hits, good for fourteen runs, while the home team scored five runs.

STARS OF A FEW YEARS AGO FADE AWAY AND FEW FANS PAUSE TO SEE THEM GO

Babe Adams (left) and Red Dooin.

Every season sees the passing on of stars who seem to have scarcely passed their heyday. Babe Adams after a few brilliant seasons has gone to the minors, and Red Dooin, for thirteen years with the Phillies, one of the greatest small catchers the game has known, after a short stay with the Giants last fall, is now forgotten and playing in the smallest bush league.

"RED" ORMSBY DEFEATED BY CUBAN STARS, 4 TO 2

Big "Red" Ormsby, Jansville's favorite, pitching for the Garden City, Chicago, team, was beaten 4 to 2 yesterday at Chicago by the Cuban Stars. A double by Madigan and another by Kavanagh, who played in the recent Beloit game, gave the Garden City bunch a two-run lead in the second when they held until the seventh and eighth. "Red" was touched for nine hits as St. Louis' "Stars" twirler, The former struck out six against his opponent's five. He lost on a bumpy play in the eighth when a ball went into the crowd.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

George Burns, the great outfielder, has a record you don't often hear about. In all the seven years he has been playing professional ball George has never once been put out of the game for disputing a decision or arguing with the ump. "It doesn't pay to get noisy," says the umpire, "says George. Sometimes when I'm sure I'm right I make a protest but I don't nag and I try not to be disagreeable. They all know it and are always willing to give me a square deal."

Styles in everything change and it seems to be so of baseball catchers. A few years ago it was thought that a successful catcher must have the burly physique of a giant. Now there's a new type of catcher and he's comparatively small. Ray Schalk was perhaps the first of these and when he first appeared with the White Sox none thought he could make the grade. Charley Dooin was an exception among the other catchers. He never weighed over 150 in all his sixteen years in the National league. Bill Harden is another of the slender type of backstop.

The ball club with pennant chances is silly to play exhibition games. As often as not a valuable player is injured or crippled and all just to pick up a few extra nickels. Not so long ago the Yanks played an exhibition game with Buffalo in the course of

HOFMAN HOPES TO STRENGTHEN YANKS

Artie Hofman.

Artie Hofman, the old Cub star, is coming back into fast company and will play in the outfield for the badly crippled Yankees. Hofman was with the Reds after leaving the wonderful old Cub machine and recently has been managing a semi-pro team in Chicago.

which Lee Magee sprained his ankle and was lost to the club for a while. There is something so perverse about baseball luck that an exhibition game seems just the place where the flux likes to get a star player.

Babe Adams, the pitching star of a few years ago, has passed out of the big leagues. Recently the Pirates gave him an unconditional release and every other club waived on him. A big league pitcher he is through forever. In 1906 and 1910 Babe Adams was the boy wonder of fast company. It seems a very short while ago that he was the hero of the world's association, where he had been pitching wonderful ball. In his first full season with the Pirates—1909—he showed great class and it was that fall that he worked in the world's series, winning three games for the Pirates. Up till 1913 Adams pitched wonderful ball, but since then has been slipping back. Now he is through and he's only thirty-three.

George Chaney seems to have made a favorable impression on Gotham fight fans when he appeared there against Packey Hommey a while ago. Most everyone who saw George agreed that he has an interesting style and bodes in the manner of a somewhat in the manner of old Terry McGovern. So long as Chaney is in the ring it's pretty likely that the entertainment will not drag. What's more, George can display a pretty stiff punch. If Johnny Kilbane should feel a bit tired out at any point in the fight with Chaney labor day he might be in danger. But otherwise it isn't likely that the champ will be much annoyed at the Chaney hasn't the speed to get near him in boxing.

In the recent east-west tennis match at New York, doubles match between Williams and Church of the east and Murray and Davis of the west provided some of the most thrilling and spectacular tennis any gallery has ever seen. All of these young men have most remarkable services. All of them entered into the thing determined to carry as much on the strength of their own backs as they might. At the close of the match, though Williams and Church won, it was agreed that Davis and Murray led all the way on service. And Williams' Davis service was acknowledged to be faster and more deceitful than McLoughlin at his best. Davis made ten service aces and Murray six. Church had two and Williams one.

Joe Rush should have credit for showing the best sort of sporting spirit. In his performance with the Athletics he has shown that the best manner to go out and work in his best manner, even though little is expected. Most of the other few who on the team seem to feel that an extra effort would be a waste of energy so long as the pennant chances and a look-in on pennant money. Joe has told Connie that he's glad and willing to do his best till the last score is in. He's shown that he's the most disheartening support, but that he is a first-class sportsman, too. Without Joe the Athletics' losing streaks would have had few interruptions.

CINCINNATI DOWNS CUBS IN ELEVEN INNINGS, 4 TO 3

The Reds won a tough eleven battle from the Cubs yesterday, 4 to 3. A strategic play that went wrong for Chicago produced the winning tally. After Griffith had opened the eleventh with a triple, Chase and Wingo were purposely walked. Nettle fired out to short left and Loudon grounded to Westman, who threw the ball home, forcing Griffith. Catcher Ellis then attempted to get Loudon at first, but lost a close decision and Chase scored the winning run before the ball could be relayed back.

Daily Thought. You were made for enjoyment, and the world was filled with things which you will enjoy, unless you are too proud to be pleased by them, or too grasping to care for what you cannot turn to other account than mere delight.—Ruskin.

Lightning Change Artist.

Administrations came and went at Washington, but a Vermont postmaster held his office for 24 years. When someone asked him how it came that he could do so, he replied with engaging frankness, "Wal, it takes a damned smart administration to change quicker than I can."

MAYBE THEY'RE JUST DOING IT TO KEEP IN GOOD PRACTICE

Benidji, Minn., Aug. 14.—Wet and dry workers were battling out votes here today for a Beltrami county option proposition election that can have but one result. Under an Indian treaty this county is as dry as good power and the federal government is bound to keep it that way. If the county goes dry at today's election, it will stay dry. If it goes wet at today's election, it will stay dry anyhow.

HEALTH TIP WORTH HEEDING

Always Hold the Head High, Is Advice Given by William Muldoon of World Fame.

In a letter to Robert Grimshaw of the New York university, William Muldoon, who ranks as one of the foremost remakers of physically broken-down men, gives advice that it would be well for every man and woman, boy and girl in America to take to heart, according to Commerce and Finance. He says:

"I was taught in early manhood not to throw my shoulders back, stick my chest out, draw my stomach in, or hold my chin down like a goat preparing to butt, but to always try and touch some imaginary things with the crown of my head. If one tries to do that—first understands how to try and then tries—he doesn't have to pay any attention to the rest of his physical being; that effort, to touch something above him, not with his forehead, but with the crown of his head, will keep every particle of his body in the position that nature intended it should be. And as a boy I was advised to frequently back up against the wall and make the back of my head, my shoulders, hips, heels, all press against the wall at the same time; and in that way get an idea of what was straight, or, in other words, how crooked I was becoming by drooping."

Both to young and old Mr. Muldoon's "hold-your-head-up" suggestion is inspiring. Try it. The effect physically and mentally is immediate. When the head goes higher the impulse is to deeper breathing. A man finds more elasticity in his limbs. He steps out with more ease. There is more spring to his gait. He isn't a lumbering, shambling creature, but a man alive. With the elevation of the crown of the head there seems to come clearer thinking, a more buoyant feeling and a brighter outlook.

FEW ARTICLES GO TO WASTE

Not Many Realize How Many Seldomly Useless Articles Have a Value as Merchandise.

Many people imagine when an article is cast into the dust bin its days are ended. This, however, is not so, for all the contents of dust carts are carefully sorted and they are emptied, anything of value being put aside, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. Disregarding things such as scissors and knives, many corporations are making a big profit out of their "dust." You wouldn't think that there would be any value in egg shells, yet every year as many as 400 tons are required in the manufacture of so-called kid gloves and also in printed calico.

Corks, too, are a valuable item, for they sell to manufacturers at the rate of nine cents a pound and in a year no fewer than $500,000 worth are thrown away.

Cycles suffer a number of hardships before they reach an absolute end. Old tires are bought at quite a good price by manufacturers for the rubber on them—inner tubes are especially valuable—and go to make rubber mats and cheap rubber toys. The frame supplies gasfitters with short lengths of tubes, and the rest of the machine is melted down to make a fresh iron article.

Anglo-Irish Tunnel Again Discussed.

For the last fifty years the proposal to construct a tunnel between England and Ireland has been discussed. It is again receiving some attention, suggested by political and military developments within the last few weeks. The tunnel, as an international utility, would shorten the journey to the United States and Canada by 48 hours, and would only cost $80,000,000.

Between the coast of Wigtownshire on one side and those of Antrim and Down on the other there lay at one time a loch about 25 miles long, and varying from 600 to 900 feet in depth, and this loch, known to geologists as Beaufort's Dyke, still lies beneath the waters of the North Channel.

Curiously enough, it is beneath this loch, which lies north and south about midway between the Irish and Scottish coasts, that it is proposed to run the tunnel.

Curiosity of Wireless.

The wireless service men with the American punitive expedition into Mexico, it is related, were surprised to discover the conditions in that country were exactly the reverse of those in the United States, says the Wireless Age. In the United States the wireless operators find that the night time is much better for the transmission of dispatches. South of the border the day time is best.

There is so much atmospheric disturbance at night in Mexico that wireless men prefer the day as a time for operating. This is not due to the altitude, which is 7,000 feet, but to the minerals in the mountains, especially iron ore.

Two Famous Scotch Cities.

Glasgow has much of the picturesque about her, but she never gets credit for it because Edinburgh is in the neighborhood. Edinburgh is picturesque in such a spectacular fashion that no other Scotch city has much of a chance. So it is taken for granted that Edinburgh represents the Scotland that is put on canvas and Glasgow, the Scotland that goes into bank books. Under more favorable circumstances Glasgow might have won a name in both lines, but as it is, she has to be content with her modern buildings and her vulgar predominance in trade.

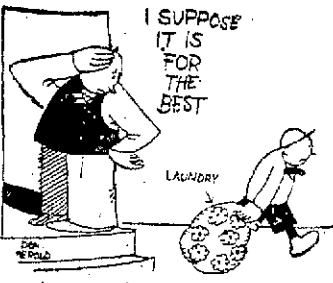

Needles and Pins.

There are 49 factories in the United States making needles and pins and all report an increase in business. What becomes of the pins? Perhaps the bulk of them are used to pin together new shirts.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

LAUNDRY

Life is a gamble. Every week we send things to the laundry. We put our shirts and collars in a sack and hand them to a boy at the door and stand and watch him go on the street with them, not knowing whether we will ever see them again or not. Of course we are certain that they will never be the same again, and we are reasonably certain that we shall never see any of them again. But we have counted the cost, and decided to send them to the laundry just the same. We can imagine the great grinding machines and vast tanks of cleansing chemicals, but we do not allow ourselves to think long on such things. We wipe them aside with the brush of our hand across our foreheads, or turn to some trivial task to smother our thoughts. We say, "Go, little laundry, go." And Saturday, some of it, usually most of it, comes back and we decide that the mental trial was worth while. Each shirt and sock (usually there is an odd sock) is thrice valuable because it has been away and come back safe. What is more fun than to burst open a newly returned package of fresh, clean laundry? People who have never had this experience have missed one of the best little thrills of human existence. Sometimes they should get something washed.

Clean laundry lends itself to stacking, and were it for nothing else than this, the weekly wash would be worth while. Handkerchiefs edge up so nicely; socks lie flat; shirts, reinforced with a backbone of stiff cardboard and stuck through here and there with about a quart of pins, can be piled in a neat heap; even a washrag has a semblance of form and symmetry, which was so bunched and wadded when it went away.

To a man who has never sent a child away to college, this weekly adventure and risk with laundry may suggest in a small way the emotions and pangs of a parent who has to wait watchfully and helplessly to see what he is going to get back at the end of four years.

HOW TO GET ALONG WITH THE HAY FEVER

This Advice, Coming Just Now, Will Be of Immense Benefit to Many People.

The symptoms of hay fever are sneezing, stuffiness of the nostrils from swelling of the mucous membrane, itching of the inner angle of the eye and perhaps itching of the roof of the mouth, a thin watery discharge from the nose, perhaps slight fever and general nervousness, worse at night or when lying down, and less trouble when the patient is active. The nasal discharge remains thin and does not become thick and purulent, as in common colds or "colds in the head." However, many cases are mistaken for cold or catarrh. In severe cases more or less asthmatic trouble accompanies the attack.

Most cases develop in August and September, being due to different pollen floating in the air at this time of year. Pollen is being carried long distances, even miles, on the wind, so that a change of wind may bring on an attack of hay fever. Or the attack may be induced by going past a vacant lot or field where the particular weed grows. Or the weed may grow in your own back garden, if you are not very lazy disposition so characteristic of this disease.

Among the weeds known to cause hay fever are the following: Ragweed (August to November), Nova Scotia (Florida and Mexico), Giant Ragweed (most common), Cockspur (April to December), Catnip weed (April to December), Yellow dock (June to December). Yellow dock, of course, rose pollen is responsible for a few cases, though not a tenth of the cases called "rose cold" and various grasses are accountable for a certain small number of cases, but the vast majority of hay fever patients need have no fear of hitting hay fever. Hay fever is so named when it is mistakenly supposed that the pollen came from the hay at harvest time, whereas the real cause was ragweed, goldenrod or other weed in the hayfield, by the way, is only rarely the cause.

Immunization of the susceptible individual by means of gradually increasing doses of the specific pollen which causes his ailment (determined by testing him with pollens or pollen extracts of one plant after another till the specific one is found) offers the best treatment available today.

Ragweed being by far the commonest cause, a ready-made pollen extract from this plant is used, and with considerable success, for the treatment of many cases.

A Detroit physician found that rather large doses of calcium chloride crystals, dissolved in water, gave great relief in many cases. Three ounces of the crystals are dissolved in one pint of water, and a teaspoonful of this is taken in one-third of a glass of water after each meal. This is made in Germany, and hence is all right.

Spraying of the nostrils and dropping in the eye a weak adrenalin solution gives symptomatic relief. One ounce of the adrenalin solution in ten or fifteen parts of normal salt solution (teaspoonful of salt to pint of boiled water). This may be used every few hours.

A sea or Great Lakes voyage, a visit to a high altitude, or a visit to any big city in which civic pride keeps down weeds is about the only relief for a severe attack.

PORT ATKINSON MINISTER OF M. E. CHURCH RESIGNS; PLANS TO GO TO CALIFORNIA

Port Atkinson, Aug. 13.—The Rev. E. W. Mager announced before a large audience this morning that this would be his last year as pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city. To use his own words, he and Mrs. Mager "have put in nine beautiful and profitable years in Port Atkinson."

During the past nine years Mr. Mager has received 203 into full church membership, baptized 200, conducted 282 funerals, 34 weddings, in this time $4,500 has been spent for building and improvements besides his new parsonage is being erected which will be completed and paid for in full at a cost of $4,500 by the close of the present conference year. The records show that during the present year Mr. and Mrs. Mager have made ten thousand calls.

The close of this year Mr. Mager will ask the conference to place him on the superannuated list for one year. He will then spend a short time looking after his property at Berkeley, Wis., after which he will go to Los Angeles, California, where he will care for his aged mother.

The present pastorate has been the most successful in the history of the local church and the many friends of both Mr. and Mrs. Mager, not only in the church, but in the city at large, will be very sorry to have them leave.

The A. T. Hamerson and W. W. Corbush families enjoyed a motor trip to Madison today.

A. J. Glover will leave tomorrow on a week's trip to Georgia, representing Hiram's Dairyman, before dairymen's conventions in that state.

Prof. S. W. Gilman and wife, Col. W. L. Anderson, wife and daughter of Madison, motored to Port Atkinson today to call on ex-Governor Hoard and visit the H. L. Hoard sanitarium.

Frank H. Rogers, attorney, has been appointed by President Wilson as postmaster for Port Atkinson, to succeed Gen. A. W. Burchard. It is expected that the appointment will be confirmed in a few days when Mr. Rogers will enter upon the active discharge of his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. D. James attended a convention of the Welsh churches and ministers of Waukesha county, at Wales, today.

Why Not Get Rid of Eczema?

If your skin itches and burns with eczema or any such tormenting, unsightly skin disease, simply wash the sore places with Resinol Soap and hot water, dry, and apply a little Resinol Ointment. Usually the itching stops INSTANTLY. You no longer have to dig and scratch, sleep becomes possible, and healing begins. That is because the soothing, antiseptic Resinol medication arrests the action of the disease, and almost always restores the tortured, inflamed skin to perfect health—quickly, easily, and at little cost. Prescribed by doctors for over 20 years, and sold by every druggist.

ROCKEFELLER'S MINERS' UNION FAILURE—MEN REJOIN FEDERATION

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 14.—Delegates from the Rockefeller mines in Colorado were prominent at the opening of the annual convention of the state federation of labor here today.

The miners of the Colorado Fuel and Iron (Rockefeller's) company are flocking back to the United Mine Workers' Union.

Recent open organization meetings in the Colorado coal fields have been attended by representatives of the Rockefeller company and well as the miners whose affiliations were condemned in the historic strike of 1913-14.

"There is no talk of a strike," said President McClelland of the state federation today. "The men are not threatened with discharge for joining the United Miners. The C. F. & I. apparently is making good on its promise not to discriminate against union men."

"But the fact that the men in Mr. Rockefeller's mines are again joining the union means that the company's industrial representation plan is not all that the men desire. The men feel that their representatives in 'Rockefeller's' union are selected rather than elected. The miners want an organization of their own, supported by themselves."

Mr. Rockefeller's industrial representation plan is paternalistic. The miners feel they are being ruled upon. Their representatives in the Rockefeller union are selected at small meetings which only a small proportion of the miners attend.

McClelland stated that the Rockefeller company had instituted great improvements in the way of Y. M. C. A. and moving picture shows and "social service."

"But the wages of the coal miners have not been increased. They are still being paid about 55 cents per ton and the demand during the strike was 100 per cent increase on this amount."

"One good thing—the saloons in the Rockefeller camps have been abolished under the state prohibition law."

The feature at the convention today was the strict enforcement of the rule that every delegate must wear at least five articles of clothing with the union label.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS U. S. MEET FOR PREPAREDNESS CONFAB

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Uncle Sam's sons of empire met here today to talk of the time when they carried the flag in China, the Philippines, Cuba, Vera Cruz and the "coral reefs and desert sands" where the United States army, navy or marine corps have fought in the past two decades.

Several thousand of them, members of the veterans of foreign wars of the United States are attending the seventeenth annual encampment of the national organization. They came prepared to talk preparedness.

Grand Commander Hartung of Denver and Adjutant General Colonel R. G. Woodside of Pittsburgh were early arrivals. Delegates are here from the Philippines and Canal Zone posts.

Delegates displayed with pride their campaign badges. This badge, issued by congress to men who saw active service in the Philippines, Haiti, Santo Domingo or Cuba, was the official badge of the encampment.

The favorite campaign discussed today was that of General Winfield Scott, made from Vera Cruz to Mexico City in 1846. The march to the Alamo was re-enacted, the sinking of the Maine pictured anew and the Nicaraguan campaign worked over again by the men who took part in many of these famous events.

The opening session was called to order shortly after noon today. A smoker will be held this evening. Two hundred delegates of the Ladies Auxiliary will hold their initial meeting tonight.

Resolutions favoring enactment of the Key pension bill, already passed by the lower house of congress, were to be adopted at this afternoon's session.

Memorial services in commemoration of the memory and history of the day will be conducted on the afternoon of the sixteenth. The convention will end Thursday.

LATEST STYLE TOMBSTONES SHOWN AT THIS CONVENTION

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—The latest styles in tombstones are on display here today. Hundreds of retail monument dealers are arriving from all over the country, lugging granite masterpieces with them. A big showing of American granites and marbles will be made here tomorrow when the National Retail Monument Dealers' association meets for its annual convention. The display was arranged by the United States Bureau of Standards. Twenty thousand square feet of stone comprised the collection.

GINGLES' JINGLES

(SCHOOL VACATION)

All the atmosphere now tingles with a wondrous joy and cheer, for again we've reached the climax slipped to us of all the year, reached the time when all the children from their school work are set free, when their gladness knows no limit, when their souls are filled with glee. And again we hear their voices in a chorus as they shout orders from the camp headquarters to some unbending scout, to some reckless wayward kid, who'll not stick for being good, who prefers to chase a locust hither o'er the emerald tuzz, minding not the orders chorused, heading, but the locusts buzz. What cares he for shouts and orders? Nothing jars his purpose now, he is free from care and worries, to no set of rules he'll bow; he'll chase butterflies and gophers, he'll do that which pleases best, giving pals and self and neighbors little peace or little rest.

Marie has met with a mishap. She was just returning from milking her cows—when? Get out your best box of water-colors or crayons and see what a beautiful picture you can make out of this. You may find it easier to paste this picture on a piece of white cardboard before painting. Be sure that it is dry before you begin work.
